Murderlis

Mörderlis is a very simple group game.

The players stand in a circle.

Game procedure

- A detective, a murderer and possibly a cleaning lady are chosen. The game can then begin.
- If a player looks the murderer in the eye and the murderer looks this player in the eye, the murderer can quickly blink twice. Then this player "dies" and has to fall over.
- The detective tries to find out who the murderer is as quickly as possible. However, he himself cannot die.
- The aim of the murderer is to eliminate everyone (except the detective and himself) without the detective finding out who the murderer is.

Destination

Together

It is possible to determine the detective together with the group first. The detective then has to leave for a short time or turns around while the others quietly determine the murderer using their own language.

Group leader

Or everyone closes their eyes and the group leader determines the murderer by tapping on the shoulder once, the detective by tapping twice and possibly the cleaning lady by tapping three times.

Optional

Optionally, you can also play with a cleaning lady. This is nothing more than a normal player who simply has to screech loudly when he dies.
