Brief introduction to radio discipline

 $\parallel$

Set up secret leader chat for all emergency patients.

Emergency patients get into position at various locations and report their location to ladder chat. Simple variation: known location features. Advanced variant: location information with coordinates only.

Gameplay

The location of an emergency is announced by radio.

 $\parallel$

The first team to arrive at the emergency reports this by radio and may treat the emergency in peace. Other teams must go out of sight.

||

If the treatment is good enough, there is a point for the team and the "patient" changes location. The patient determines if the treatment was good enough and reports it in ladder chat.

||

If the treatment is inadequate, the emergency is passed through again, and another team gets to try.

 $\parallel$

Each emergency arrives multiple times, and multiple emergencies may arrive in quick succession, so one team can't treat them all.

 $\parallel$

The team with the most successful treatments wins.
