Description:
The chasers (in red) stand in the chase field (in yellow). They have the right to run only to the left and right (black arrows) along the length of the field. All other runners (in green) stand on one side of the field. Their goal is to cross to the other side(in purple) of the fieldwithout the chasers catching them. The game doesn't start until all participants have stood on one side of the field, the chasers have stood in the chase field and shouted: "1-2-3-birdies". Runners may not stand on either side of the field for more than one minute. The goal is for the children to constantly move from one part of the field to the other.When one of the chasers touches one of the runners, the runner becomes a chaser and enters the infield. The game ends when all the runners are caught and turned into chasers.According to the number and age of the participants, an appropriate number of chasers is selected from the participants.
