Emergency behavior

When seconds make the difference between life, death or permanent damage to an accident victim, it is important to act correctly and take immediate life-saving measures quickly. Providing emergency aid and first aid is a self-evident duty towards all fellow human beings.

Behavioral steps in case of emergency

* Look: Overview of the situation; What has happened; Who is involved; Who is affected?
* Think: rule out danger to helpers; rule out danger to other people; rule out danger to patients;
* Act: Self-protection; Secure and signalize the accident site
(breakdown triangle, hazard warning lights); Switch off machines; Provide emergency assistance;

6 W-questions

* Where did it happen?
* Who is calling?
* What happened?
* When did it happen?
* How many people are affected?
* What else? Special hazards, trapped persons, smoke development, hanging electrical cables, identification number for hazardous goods transportation, leaked, unknown liquids, danger of falling in and out

Acting in crisis situations

- Assess the situation/problem
- Provide first aid if necessary
- Brief planning of the necessary measures
- Supervision of the participants
- Giving and checking orders
- Strengthen the leaders concerned (later clarification of guilt)
- Inform club and association management:
- Who and how many are affected?
- What, where, when did it happen?
- What measures were taken?

- Addresses of those involved
- Do not actively inform the media yourself
