The Statue

Participants line up at a distance of approximately 3–6 meters from the leader.

The leader will stand with their back to the participants.

At the start, participants try to move as quietly and smoothly as possible so that the leader cannot hear them. The goal is to reach the leader and take their place. From time to time, unexpectedly, the leader will give the command “freeze” and turn around. This is the moment when the participants must freeze. If the leader spots someone who has moved, that person will be asked to return to where they started.

The person who reaches the front first will take the leader’s place, and the game will resume.
