On the phone!

A cozy game to get to know each other

Game instructions

A youth group member is handed a telephone. It rings and he answers it: "Jungschar ... hello. ... speaking." The youth worker answers: "Can you give me some information about this Paul?" The youth worker says: "Just a minute, I'll put you through" and passes the receiver to the next person, who introduces themselves by name. The employee responds: "Yes, your colleague (names the first youth worker) has put me through to you. I have a question about a certain Paul" "I'm sorry. I don't know him. I'll pass it on". Every young person who has the phone in their hand is told anew who connected them and always asks a new question, but in connection with the biblical person or story already mentioned. In this way, some questions can be asked that are answered later in the devotion. In the game, however, the youth leaders act as if they never knew the answer and continue to connect with the next person.
