Letter bingo!

A direct hit

Game instructions

The employee has prepared a "hat" with small pieces of paper: On each piece of paper is a letter from the alphabet. Each letter appears once. Each young adult is given a pen and a piece of paper. Each young person draws as many squares on the piece of paper as there are letters in their name: So Thomas draws: rrrrrrr . Whoever has the fewest squares gets to decide which squares the others can now fill in. Everyone must have the same number of empty squares at the start of the bingo. Now the employee draws one letter after the other from the hat. For each letter that is drawn, the youngsters may fill in all the fields in which this letter appears. The first person to fill in all the letters of their name in the empty fields is the winner.
